Location

Paris, France

Palais Galliera, the fashion museum of Paris, presents the exhibition "Gabrielle Chanel – Manifesto de Mode". This is the first exhibition entirely dedicated to Gabrielle 'Coco' Chanel, founder of the eponymous famous French fashion house. The visionary designer, who imagined a new charm and caused a revolution with her universe of fashion, accessories, perfumes, beauty and jewellery.

The exposition highlights the origins and evolution of Gabrielle Chanel's style, the characteristics of her work, the rise of her codes and her contribution to the history of fashion. The collection of more than 350 pieces, dating from 'The Patrimoine de CHANEL', the collection of the Palais Galliera and several international museums, sheds new light on the lasting influence of the designer who changed the style of women forever.

BRUNS

Palais Galliera "Gabrielle Chanel, Manifesto de Mode"

Bruns had the honour of manufacturing the display cases Etoile and the Bijoux table to design of Atelier de L'île and Ciel Architectes.

In the showcase Etoile, the masterpiece of the collection is presented on a column of clear glued glass. This glass column is a work of art in itself and made with great dedication by Bruns.

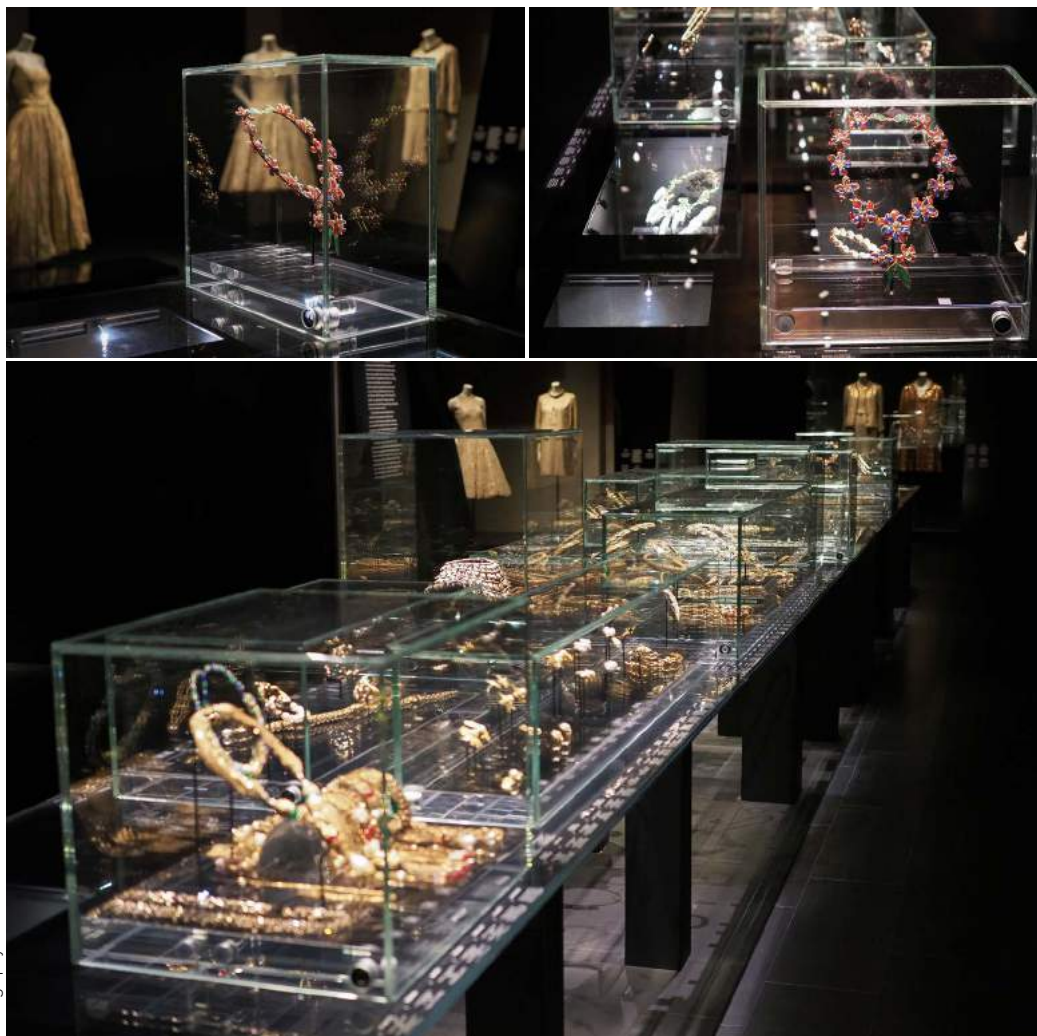

All showcases are airtight and meet the high security requirements of presenting the special jewellery and exclusive Bijoux collection.

The Bijoux table consist of a 22mm thick laminated extra clear glass table top. On the glass top there are 17 glass cones, each with its own security lock. Under the glass table top are 13 steel display cases, each with its own security lock. The jewels in the sunken showcases are highlighted with spotlights. The whole ensures an optimal presentation of this beautiful collection of Gabrielle 'Coco' Chanel.

"Your investment has been invaluable in supporting us and building this exhibition together." - Fanny Holman, Deputy Director of Exhibitions and Publications- Head of the Exhibition Department at Paris Musées
